

SCOTTISH DEAF RUGBY.

ANYTHING BUT QUIET.

The same passion. The same intensity. The same teamwork, commitment and pride.

We're looking for male players to join Scotland's Deaf Rugby Team. If you play club rugby regularly and you have a hearing loss, you could represent your country on the international stage.

Of course, you have to be Scottish (born here, have a Scottish parent or grandparent, or have lived here for 3 years) and you'll need to be over 18. But being Deaf doesn't mean there's no hearing allowed. You can qualify with only a slight hearing loss – with an average loss of 25dB over both ears.

If you're not sure whether you qualify, get in touch and you'll get a complementary hearing test with our Sponsor Hidden Hearing. After all, a hearing loss isn't something to be embarrassed about – it could be your ticket to playing for Scotland.

Find out about our Official Hearing Aid Audiology Partner, Hidden Hearing, at www.hiddenhearing.co.uk

JOIN US – call 07812482846 or email info@scottishdeafrugby.org.uk

Find out more at www.scottishdeafrugby.org.uk

